Football Indomitable Lions

A historical unifying emblem in Cameroon !!!

Since independence, football has positioned itself as one of the national symbols and element of peace, unity, joy and love. The Cameroon national football team often monickered the indomitable lions are regarded by many lovers as one of the national emblems same as the flag and the national anthem. They position themselves as the forces of law and order who are there to defend our national colours.

economic considerations and political ideologies all the country is in perfect communion. We can take as examples the measure victories recorded by the national football team, in the 1984, 1988, 2000, 2002 and 2017 African cup of Nations trophies, not keeping aside the 1990 world cup with Cameroon reaching the quarter finals of the competition as the first African nation, and the 2000 gold medal at the Olympic games just to name these.

the beginning of the year, the attention given to all the actions taken by Samuel ETO'O, President of the Cameroon football federation, since his election at the helm of this institution, the qualification of the lions to the 2022 FIFA world cup in Qatar, which came up under a special and unbelievable qualification in Blida, Algeria are clear proofs of love, the celebrations and jublations shown by the nation in fan zones, homes, bars, on various streets and on social media, was really incredible. In addition to that, the effervescence before during and after the football cup of Cameroon on October 2, is also an undeniable evidence of the love story between football and Cameroonians.

Few days to the start of the Qatar World Cup, many Cameroonians are optimistic, and convince the indomitable lions are going to do better than the previous editions.

It is therefore evident that a victory of the indomitable lions will once again consolidate peace, love, happiness and patriotism amongst Cameroonians. "ALLIEZ LES LIONS"!!!

This is because it federates the greatest number of Cameroonians as compared to other sports disciplines practiced in the Country. When there is a victory, it generates joy, concord, happiness and celebrations in the entire nation, from North to South, East and West independently of the tribe, religious beliefs,

The communion of Cameroonians was visible and non deniable. They were at each occasion received by the head of State, President of the Republic.

FRANC CFA COINS SHORTAGE

A miscellaneous equation for economic operators in Yaounde

At the time the monetary issuing institute of central African States, BEAC, is getting set to inject into the economy of the Central African sub-region (Cameroon, Congo, Gabon, Chad, Central African Republic, and Equatorial Guinea), a new range of banknotes and coins, there has been for several years now in Cameroon, and Yaounde in particular, a general and persistent scarcity of CFA Franc coins in the local economy. Being it for 1,2,5,10,25,50,100 and 500 Francs most of this coins have become very rare and others have completely disappeared from local markets. This is the case with the 1frs,2frs, 5frs and 10frs which are hardly seen for the exchange of goods and services. For the other categories of CFA Franc metallic money, that is 25frs, 50frs, 100frs and 500frs, they are available in a small quantity. These has resulted to measure difficulties in the smooth running of economic activities, especially at the level of small business transactions. The new series of banknotes and coins of the Economic and Monetary Community of Central Africa States (Cemac) announced will be launched by the end of this year precisely end of November. The said project was part of the resolutions made by the Ministerial Committee of the Central African Monetary Union (UMAC) at the end of a double ordinary and extraordinary session on July 20, 2022, in Douala. The main aims of improving the characteristics and security of these different means of exchange.

"I don't have coins"

Is has gradually become the motto of most trader here in the capital city. In some markets like Mokolo market and the Mfoundi market it is almost impossible to carry on small economic transaction with the absence of coins. This has become a major dilemma in almost all domains of the economy, And has caused several losses in especially for micro-economic activities, as many people are most of the times obliged to allow their cash or loss their customers because of coins. Economics agents in Yaounde are therefore hopeful that the issuing of bank notes and coins may attenuate their losses.

Indeed, the quantity of this legal tenders in circulation has suddenly and considerably reduce, token 1, 2, 5, 10, 25, 50, 100 and 500 frs are limited in circulation. This complex situation has enormous negative consequences on the exchange of goods and services, for whom coins are fundamental for their proper functioning. Due to this problem, the Bank of central African states BEAC in 2019 introduced new coins in the Economy in order to solve the problem.

But visibly this solution happen to be inefficient in the long run.

For some traders, the disappearance of coins in the market is causing them huge losses in their activities Corinne Eva, Trader "we generally obliged to give up some customers because we don't have coins. Or at sometimes we're are forced to sell goods to them bellow normal prices". Despite the measures taken by authorities in order to tackle the phenomenon, the situation is still cobwebb. Traders at the Mfoundi complained, there has been little or no change in their domain of activity instead the situation is becoming worst.

Nadine, Tomato seller "It's really difficult, I'm obliged to lost most of my customers, because they always come with paper money, like today I lossed four of my clients because they came with paper money, the little coins I had in the morning got finished".

Silvie, trader "I generally buy coins from truck pushers and other coins sellers and thats really a great loss I'm forced to face everyday, but I don't have a choice. With 1000frs you have 900frs coins. And it's not available all the time". Others use some strategies to solve the problem, Roland "I generally convince buyers to take other items when there are difficulties in having change but when they refuse, there is nothing I can do".

For buyers the realities are the same. The are at times oblige to waste of a lot of time in the market.

Mama Nguinjo, Buyer household "My son everything is expensive, to look for money is not easy, and even to spend it is not easy as well. The money you have suffered to acquire, I don't really understand all the small cash have disappeared. I'm holding an ordinary 1000frs, noway for me to take a taxi for Damas"

" I was Obliged to buy something I didn't want because it was of change even to carry this my market bag, I generally buy 100frs but since I'm holding 500frs I'm obliged to pay atleast 200frs to those carriers before getting someone to carry my bag."

It is important to not that this situation is note only in market's other sectors and actors in the society also face the problem.

URBAN TRANSPORT

The losses of taxi Drivers

Roger FOKO, Taxi driver

The sector of urban transport is one of the domain of activities that has been greatly affected by this phenomenon of coins shortage. Disputes and quarrels are some of the realities these actors are force to go through on daily basis.

For some taxi drivers in the city of Yaounde, the disappearance of coins is causing them huge losses in their activities, Roger FOKO, Taxi driver " I'm generally obliged to give up some customers because we don't have coins, or sometimes we're are forced to transport them below normal tariffs. These modes of operation are not beneficial to us at the end. I can tell you that I loose close to 5000frs daily due to this transactional difficulties".

In addition to that, there are much altercations they usually have with their clients, either because of a 50frs or 100frs difference. "There are generally huge quarrels between us and some clients they at times don't declare that they don't have coins, for a distance of 100frs or 150frs, clients deliberately decide not to tell you they're holding a 500frs or 1000frs note. it's only when you transport them to their destination that they give you the money, waiting for their balance. The waste of time generally occasioned by this types of disagreement is really enormous, and therefore has a negative impact on our daily profits". Faced with this difficulty, they at times adopt measures such as the buying of coins in other to sustain the situation, while waiting for the government and monetary authorities to adopt a definite solution.

THE SELLING OF COINS

When money become a Commodity

The scarcity of coins has led to the development of some illegal activities such as the sales of coins. This has been one of the factors responsible in the depending of the situation.

Some individuals have transformed money, into a commodity, they now sell them to other traders who are highly in need of them for their daily little activities. According to some sources, these coins are gotten in stock from the central bank, and commercialised in various markets. Roland Ndi is a coin seller at Avenue Kennedy " I sell 1000frs for 1100frs, for my transactions I collect 10%". He continued by adding that, the sources of supply varies according to circonstances. At times the coins are gotten from petrol stations and at times from banks.

Like Roland, many other young Cameroonians have joined this business line proving that it is flourishing.

OTHER USES OF COINS

The transformation of Coins to Jewelleries

Coins are used as raw materials by some jewelry producers at the Briquetterie neighborhood here in Yaounde. The coins are withdrawn from the economy by this actors in various ways. This is to avoid the expensives.

> Melted coins.

The business of jewelleries has gained space and the production procedures and strategies has evolved. Due to the constant difficulties encountered in the production of this raw materials due to the complexity of access to raw material. Metals such as gold, silver, platinum. Oumarou Bouba, actor in the industry at Briquetterie. "Buying minerals nowadays has become very difficult, due to the control that has been intensified by SONAMINES and other members of the ministry of Mine. The little quantity of gold for instance we used to buy from our partners has become very expensive. Here in my small industry, I now used other alternatives like the melting of coins which highly reduce my cost of Production. With a 500frs coins for instance, you can produce a ring of 25000frs for example." Apart from this type of local producers, other reports abroad has demonstrated that some foreigners are also involved in illegal exportation of coins for the production of jewelleries. It is therefore clear that these are responsible in the depenings of the present state of things.

THE UNWANTED

1frs, 2frs, 5frs, 10frs franc CFA

Since 2002 when the last bank notes and coins were issued, these categories of coins has really been a subject to a lot of reject. Many users in Cameroon and Yaounde in particular do not accept this legal tenders as a medium of exchange.

This systematical refusal has been for several reasons. If others are talking about its minute nature, others on their part raised up the problems of non portability and confort. Very few business men accepts this as a medium of exchange, Bertrand itinerant trader, "I don't take these coins they are too small I don't know how to used that and those 5 frs and 10 frs for me is not money". Others on their part, talk of the quantity, Mary " I can't be having much money like that for nothing, it's too heavy. The reality is that I use to collect them, but at a certain moment this money was always refused by others".

The rejection of these coins has worsen the situation, and render exchanges more complex than ever before. For some years now, the category of this token has gradually disappeared in the economy, it is extremely difficult to see this category of coins.

This situation has been highly encouraged by the fact that many of these citizens are not aware of the fact that the refusal of a legal tender is condemned by law.

■ NNY

The different evolutions

The refusing of coins, is a phenomenon which developed with the arrival of the last sets of coins which were issued in 2002 by BEAC. According to the figures gotten from experts of the national institute of statistics.

All categories not coins were accepted by everyone from 2002, to 2006. From 2006 to 2010, only about 90% of the population could accept the 1frs, 2frs, 5frs, 10frs for exchanges. From 2010 to 2014, the percentage of acceptance went down to 30%. From 2014 to 2018 the percentage decrease to 10%. And today less than 5% of the population accepts medium of exchange. Only few persons structures accepts this coins as a medium of exchange. As clearly illustrated on the diagram.

REACTIONS

What can be done to solve the problem ?

JOSEPH MOULONG

« The Production of coins should be cancelled »

The Central Bank should produce only bank notes that is we should have the 500 frs, 100frs, 50frs, 25frs all in Paper money. we have seen that in other Economies like Nigeria with the Naira, I think we should do the same, it will cancel problems such as the illegal exporting of coins out of the Economy.

ALIM ABO

«The monetary authorities, should increase the production of Coins»

The production of Coins should be increased, they are not enough in the Economy, I think by doing so the problem will be solved. The demand for the coins are increasing, while the quantity available in the Economy is instead decreasing.

ABACAR NOURDINE

«The sanction should be prioritized»

Those using coins for money making should be sanctioned, that those selling the coins, they are using coins as a commodity and those removing the coins from the economy for other purposes.

ATEM VINUS

«Other categories of Coins»

Other Categories of Coins should be multiplied, there should be a further divisibility of the face values. We should have for instance the 200frs, the 250frs, 300frs coins. In that way, exchanges will be eased. The fact of looking for coins the entire day is not really easy especially for us traders.

■ Reactions gathered by NNY

Some Measures taken by authorities

Aware of the Cobwebbed situation inhabitants are going through, the government and BEAC have taken some measures to curb the situation.

This illegal act which is perpetrated and perpetuated by some foreigners as well as Cameroonians has not been neglected by the government and by the monetary authorities. The government of Cameroon through the ministries of defense and finance has intensified control at the borders in order block the outflow of coins in the economy, thanks to this measure, on the month 17th of February 2020, close to 27 bags of coins were seized from an Asian business man in Yaounde. Also, gambling machines operating with the usage of coins has been prohibited. In addition, the Bank of Central African States (BEAC), in 2019 injected in to circulation additional coins in order to curb the shortage of coins in the CEMAC subregion. How ever extra efforts have to be made by the government and monetary autorités, in order to curb the problem of coins shortages in the long run.

Dr KOUTY

« The Digitalisation of exchanges is a major solution To the coin scarcity »

To better understand this phenomenon of coins scarcity in Yaounde we spoke with Dr Manfred KOUTY, an Economist, Specialised in Monetary affairs, Who gave us some explanations.

Good morning Dr KOUTY What can we say are the causes of coins desappearances in our economy?

The problem is that the metal used is too expensive, the face value of the metal is lower than the nominal value of the metal with whom it's Produced. Secondly we can also talk of the fact that the Franc CFA are not portable enough. People are not comfortable with it, especially the 1frs, 2frs, 5frs and 10frs. That's why it's rejected by many. Also, many people both Cameroonians and foreigners remove coins from the economy to use them to produce jeweleries, others sell money as a commodity.

What are the consequences in the economy?

The major consequences is that it result to great barrier to the smooth running of economic transactions, causing as such great financial and transactional losses to economic agents.

What can you suggest as solutions to the monetary authority in other to tackle this problem?

In the short run, more coins should be introduced in the economy. As fondamental solution, economic transactions should be digitalised. As such, people would not need to move along with cash. This will solve other problems like embezzlement and corruption, and will also permit a gain of time in economic transactions. Countries like Rwanda, South Africa, Kenya have a started using this paiement system. All economies will inevitably get to this state of things.
